OEM PRODUCTS

LinX pre-certified OEM products save you time and money by eliminating design, certification and tooling costs. They are ideal for remote control or command applications where the user would press a button on one end and perform an action on the other end. OEM products are completely assembled, tested and FCC certified (many have Industry Canada and European CE certifications as well). Combine these products with each other or with LinX RF modules to form a system. With a one-time fee, you can even have LinX add your company logo, graphics, colors and custom button layout to rapidly create a truly unique product.

HS Family

The HS Series uses CipherLinX™, a remote control encryption technology that provides ultimate RF security and unprecedented features. CipherLinX™ technology never sends or accepts the same packet twice, and changes codes with every packet sent. The HS series also provides a wide range of innovative features, including the ability to establish user groups and button level permissions.

RoHS Compliant For quantities of 100 and up, call for quote.

MS Family

The MS Series uses a random fixed address with 224 possible combinations to give a high level of uniqueness and a reasonable level of security. The address is created by the user with the press of a single button, eliminating the need for awkward DIP switches. The MS Series also provides a wide range of innovative features including the ability to establish user groups and button level permissions.
