Mouser teams with M/A-COM Technology Solutions to deliver innovative RF solutions to Engineers Worldwide

July 14, 2011 – Mouser Electronics, Inc., a top design engineering resource and global distributor for semiconductors and electronic components, today announced that it is now selling products for M/A-COM Technology Solutions (M/A-COM Tech), a leading supplier of semiconductors, active and passive components, and subassemblies for use in radio frequency (RF), microwave and millimeter wave applications. Their target applications include cellular base stations and infrastructure, military communications, avionics, radar, medical equipment, point-to-point and broadband radios, and broadcast equipment.

“We are very excited to work with M/A-COM Technology Solutions. M/A-COM Tech is an industry leader with more than 60 years’ experience in designing and manufacturing innovative RF product solutions. Mouser delivers more than 40 years of distribution expertise,” states Russell Rasor, Mouser Vice President of Advanced Technology. “Together we will bring advanced RF technologies to engineers worldwide, helping them get their designs to market faster.”

Jim Dempsey, Director of M/A-COM Tech Distribution, commented, “Having Mouser Electronics as our authorized global distributor offers us the opportunity to address our customers’ needs for time-critical design cycles. We look forward to expanding our ability to service our customers with the latest technologies and products more efficiently.”

M/A-COM Tech provides solutions to a broad range of complex RF and microwave challenges. RF, microwave, and millimeter wave products from M/A-COM Tech provide functionality such as signal conditioning, frequency conversion, amplification, limiting, attenuation, signal generation, transmission, and reception.
