

202602016I : Update Information Regarding NXP Safety & Power Management FS26 Products and Migration to eFS26 Products

Previously NXP Semiconductors announced Discontinuation Notification 202512015DN (December 2025) for the migration of FS26 products to the corresponding new enhanced eFS26 products. New Customer Information Notification CIN 202602016I provides additional information to aid customers with the migration process. The attached document has been updated to include additional direct replacement parts which were not explicitly stated in the prior notification 202512015DN. Now all standard part numbers (in the form of MFS26xxAMzzzAD/R2) have an explicitly stated "New Orderable Part Number" listed (in the form of MFS26xxHMzzzAD/R2) and an explicitly stated "New I2NC" listed. Further NXP confirms that every current part number has a direct replacement as noted by the remark column. This is true even if "New Orderable Part Number" and "New I2NC" are blank (as is the case for many prototype and custom parts with PFS or SFS leading characters). Please contact NXP for support in such cases as the replacement part numbers will be created upon request.
