

A technical line drawing of a building facade. The design is symmetrical. At the center is a large arched entrance. Above this arch is a small, narrow window. On either side of the central arch are tall, narrow windows. Further out on each side are columns. The entire upper section is topped by a flat roofline. Below the main facade is a wide, horizontal base, possibly representing a foundation or a lower level of the building. The drawing uses simple black lines on a white background.

